

Intro:

- Kyle: "Hi Ladies, it is a pleasure to meet you and Anne-Marie says hello as well."
- Kyle: "I was thinking about the poster that was displayed at Dirtyfest and I have been talking with Linda. I have some questions about it if you don't mind?"
- Kyle: "Who all had a hand in making it?"
- Kyle: "There were a couple of things that I wanted to ask about with regards to some writings I noticed."
- Beverly's story on the posterboard:
 - Kyle: "Beverly, you wrote something."
 - Kyle: "I would love to hear you read it. Would you mind?"
 - Kyle: "Thank you."
 - Kyle: "The imagery in that is - I don't know if I have the right word."
 - Kyle: "There are a couple of things that really stood out to me."
 - Kyle: "You said - "Watching Harry grow into the man he became fills me with immense pride. But I'd be lying if I said that I didn't miss the boy he was before BMX fully claimed him."
 - Kyle: "That's a powerful place to be in my opinion - I don't know the sides of the coin though. What I do understand is a child's innocence and how I imagine Anne-Marie growing up."
 - Kyle: "I asked Linda this question, when we walked the London Bridge. I am curious for your answer if you don't mind."
 - Kyle: "Have you found peace with Harry's BMX career?"
 - Kyle: "Thank you Beverly."
- Cammie's poem
 - Kyle: "I know that there is something that Cammie wrote as a eulogy."
 - Kyle: "Would you mind sharing that with us?"
 - Kyle: "Thank you. As you reflect back on it now, how does it make you feel?"
- Group
 - Kyle: "What about you Beverly and Linda? What are your thoughts about these writings - past all of the initial craziness and culmination at dirtyfest?"
- Linda's poem:
 - Kyle: "Linda, you wrote something on a napkin it looked like?"
 - Kyle: "Do you remember when it was written and maybe the backstory?"
 - Kyle: "Was that written on a napkin?"
 - Kyle: "My goodness. It sounded from the heart."
 - Kyle: "How do you reflect on those words now?"

Conclusion:

- Kyle: "Ok, so Linda knows this game. It is called one word."
- Kyle: "Are you all, Linda - you can play again if you like."..." I am actually curious to see if your answers have changed or not. Last time I believe you called him "dumbass" with regards to being your brother."
- Kyle: "One word to describe Harry - your son - your brother - and the person you believe him to be to you - not who the BMX world currently understands him as."
- Kyle: "Ladies, the floor is yours and I would love to hear why you chose what you chose."
- Kyle: "That was too much fun."
- Kyle: "This was amazing. Thank you ladies!"
- Kyle: "I hope we can do this again sometime."
- Kyle: "Anne, can you say bye-bye."... "Yeah, bye-bye."
- Kyle: "Ladies, it was a pleasure - we will chat again soon."
- Kyle: "Thank you and God bless."